

“HomeGuard locks termites out... and lets pest managers back in”

HomeGuard does more than take the dirt out of physical termite barrier management; it brings the physical barrier business back to the Pest Control market.

While others completely cut you out of pre-construction markets, FMC breaks down the barriers and allows you back into the game.

We invite you to be a partner in our inevitable success. Pest Managers, apply now for official HomeGuard Accreditation and you'll never look back.

Everything you want to know about
The HomeGuard Precision Termite Management System

“And believe me, there's a lot you'll want to know”

FMC

HomeGuard stops, repels and kills termites, once and for all.

Whichever termite barrier you're using now, forget about it. Just like your customers can forget about termites.

New HomeGuard is here.

HomeGuard is a patented termite management system using a termiticide in combination with a physical barrier. HomeGuard is the first of its kind and the only physical termite barrier ever registered by the APVMA.

Developed by FMC, a market leader in the Australian pest-management industry, this unique single-layer sheet is also an approved moisture barrier (AS 2870), and damp course saving you money all round.

It can be installed as a total stand-alone system, or customised to suit your desired level of protection or budget.

A cinch to work with.

HomeGuard is available in two standard sizes. Firstly in convenient 2m wide rolls that expand to a massive 4m X 50m total area. This lightweight (0.2mm) sheet is easy to carry, transport and work with. A 1m X 50m DPC roll is also available, specifically designed to be cut to size, as a 0.5mm perimeter cavity product, which also meets the Australian Standard for a damp proof course.

HomeGuard contains a UV stabiliser and won't delaminate. You won't cut your hands installing it like you can with some metal physical barrier systems. And being non-scheduled and non-sensitising, it's much safer for you and for your customers.

HomeGuard sheets are supplied in roll-form and being white in colour, readily show chalk line markings, plus they reflect radiant heat, making them cooler to work around.

In addition, HomeGuard collars protect the service penetrations and are an integral part of this unique termite management system.

HomeGuard has passed the toughest tests.

This innovative new 3-way system has been tested and proven by the relevant authorities in Australia.

Being the first ever registered physical barrier system in Australia, you know it works.

That's why it's backed by a 10 year Warranty when installed by an accredited HomeGuard installer, giving you and your customers total peace of mind.

Bringing the business back to the industry.

HomeGuard has broken down the barriers to the pre-construction physical barrier market. Distributed through the traditional Pest Management supply network, HomeGuard means new markets and new opportunities for your business.
